The Cone of Uncertainty is a model used in project management to describe the evolution of uncertainty over time. It is shaped like a cone, with the narrowest part at the beginning of the project and the widest part at the end. The width of the cone represents the range of possible outcomes, and the height represents the level of uncertainty. The model is based on the assumption that uncertainty decreases as the project progresses, but it also acknowledges that uncertainty can increase if the project encounters unexpected challenges.
